TOM FORD S/S 2016 Runway Abstract Zebra Calf Hair Coat – As Seen on Lady Gaga

Archival TOM FORD S/S 2016 Runway Abstract Zebra Calf Hair Coat – As Seen on Lady Gaga

Description:
A definitive piece of modern fashion history. This exceptional, highly coveted statement coat hails from Tom Ford's historic Spring/Summer 2016 collection—a season that famously bypassed the traditional physical runway in favour of a groundbreaking, cinematic fashion film directed by Nick Knight.

This exact model of the coat was worn by Lady Gaga as a primary look in the iconic campaign film, where she performed a reimagined version of Chic's "I Want Your Love."

See: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=cNUhwgpnAZc

Design & Craftsmanship:
Crafted in Italy from premium, ultra-sleek 100% genuine calf hair (cavallino), the coat features a magnificent, oversized abstract zebra motif. The organic, dripping black-and-white panels showcase Tom Ford’s signature mid-2010s "pop-art maximalism." It is meticulously designed with a minimalist silhouette, a clean collarless neck, concealed leather-covered button closures to maintain the graphic continuity, and a luxurious 100% silk lining.

Collector's Note:
Because this collection was presented via a digital, one-off cinematic event rather than a standard commercial runway, production numbers for the major outerwear pieces were tightly restricted.

This is an extraordinarily rare, museum-quality investment piece for collectors of Tom Ford-era design and pop culture ephemera.

- Condition: Excellent / Pristine Archival Condition
- Country of Origin: Italy
- Material: 100% Calf Hair (Outer) / 100% Silk (Lining) / Genuine Leather Trim
- Size: [Insert Size here, e.g., IT 38 / US 4]

